Chief Stewart Fired By Township Board

WILSON FIELD LIGHTS OK'D

Six Arcs To Illuminate Grid Games

The Bristol Township School Board last night voted unanimously to approve the erection of arc lights for the Woodrow Wilson football field. The action was taken in a closed session with five of the seven school directors present.

School director John Hess said that six lights along with a public address system and a scoreboard will be erected "as soon as possible." He estimated the cost of the project at $33,000 to $35,000.

$48,000 Estimated

Hess said that the venture had originally been estimated at a cost of $48,000. This was before the building of the school had been completed. Since then, Hess said, the school's architects, with the prompting of board members George Fischer, Newtown Parkes Jr., Louis Alimenti and Hess, had Good Evening!

Rare days of August.

A week hence September. Short summer.

And the future pleasant to anticipate what with the long Labor Day weekend, Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Year's all on the schedule as usual. Already we're walking right into the holiday season.

Police Chief John Stewart walks into another big headache, we see by the papers, what with the Bristol Township Commissioners having fired him.

We suppose this is one he'll object to. Somehow you wonder why during all of these years the township can't have the kind of a police department in which the people, the township officials and the law enforcement boys themselves have full and complete confidence.

At that, everything considered, the department seems to be doing a fair journeyman's job of looking after the public safety.

Pirates continuing winning 'em just like they didn't have the pennant all but sewed up.

Our Dodgers apparently will have to wait until next year. And we trust this observation is happily noted by Dick Hephurn, Carl Sandburg school faculty member, who insists our loyalty to 'em is nothing but a hex sign.

Just the same we're still pulling for our Levittown American Little League All Stars to go the whole way with Williamsport. To-day's game should tell the story.

You've probably discovered it too: Much easier to borrow trouble than it is to give it away.

Maybe now's the time educators should plan to teach kids in school what clothes hangers are for.

Always easy to be an angel when nobody ruffles your feathers.

If you drive, be careful.

Friars, Legionnaires, Plan Drum And Bugle Contest

Bristol's Bracken Post and Levittown's Bishop Egan High School Friar's Club will co-sponsor a drum and bugle corps contest for 15 units Sept. 17 at the Bristol High School field. Planning for the event last night are, (from left) Arthur Straccio and Lawrence McCoy, drum and bugle corps representatives; the

Very Reverend Regis Stafford, T.O.R., High School principal; and Joseph Sprandio and Andrew Kazimer, Friars Club representatives. The competing corps will perform at 2:30 p.m. and again at 8 p.m. (Courier-Times Photo)

Middletown Plans 2 Tax Referendums

The County Board of Electors and the County Commissioners will be petitioned by the Middletown Township Board of Supervisors to place two tax referendums on the November ballot.

According to a resolution approved last night at the Board of Supervisors meeting, the request will be for a maximum tax of two mills for fire protection and a two mill tax for Parks and Recreation. The Recreation tax, assessed at 2 mills, would bring the Township about $65,000 a year, it was reported.

Get Approval

Before the taxes could be levied, the county organizations must approve the referendum questions and a majority of the Middletown Township electorate would have to vote for them.

"The taxes would probably be less than two mills if approved," declared Patrick Shields, chairman of the board of supervisors. Frank T. Wisniewski, chairman of the township planning commission, expressed fear that if the Park and Recreation referendum appears on the November ballot along with similar tax referendums, the electorate may reject them in blanket disapproval.

Rising Costs

Such a reaction would ignore rising costs of Township lands and deprive the Township of necessary Park and Recreation Funds, Wisniewski said.

The Supervisors also extended until Oct. 31 the deadline date that Levitt and Sons Realty Company has to complete repair of Levittown streets. Earlier this week the Supervisors had threatened to recall performance and maintenance bonds posted by the Levitt firm as a guarantee to the Township that the repairs would be completed by Aug. 31.

"Our whole purpose is to get the repair job completed before the weather stops work on the project. We did not weaken the Township's position by granting the extension," Shields stated. "The full amount of the guarantee bonds remain in effect," he added.

$230,000 Bonds

The guarantee bonds total about $230,000, it was reported.

In other action the Supervisors adopted an ordinance liberalizing home occupations in the Township. Under the new regulations, people working in home occupations no longer are required to petition the zoning board of adjustment for permission to carry on their occupation.

The Supervisors also amended the subdivision regulations making it possible for light and medium industry to move into the area.

Report Says Police Dept. 'Inefficient'

Bristol Township's board of commissioners acted as expected last night and, basing its action on a two-month study of the police department by a five-man bipartisan committee, fired Police Chief John R. Stewart.

The dismissal become effective last midnight; it is subject to appeal by Stewart.

The lone dissenting vote in the firing action was cast by Republican Commissioner Samuel U. Delp. Voting for the ouster were Republicans Vincent H. Hartley, LeRoy D. Evans, Carl F. Vetter, Ike H. Adams, and Harry W. Fawkes, and Democrats James T. Dunlavey, William J. O'Neill and Leonard B. Sokolove. Democrat Louis D. Rossi was not at the special meeting.

Principal finding of the study committee during its seven executive sessions since it was appointed June 29 was that the police department "as it is presently run is grossly inefficient."

Stewart, who sat with the commissioners during a brief part of an hour-and-a-half closed session before last night's public meeting, went directly to his office after being told of the board's decision.

Refuses Comment

He refused comment when approached by newsmen. It is reliably reported, however, that he told the board he would fight the ouster through the civil service commission and into the courts if necessary.

The complete text of the committee's report follows:

"The undersigned committee members were appointed by the Chair in the early part of June to be a continuing committee for the purpose of studying the various departments of the Township. The within report is the report on the committee's study of the Police Department of Bristol Township. All members of the Police Department, including the Chief, were interviewed by the committee. The following conclusions have been reached by the committee:

1. That the Bristol Township Police Department as it is presently run is grossly inefficient.

2. That the morale of the Police Department at present is at a low ebb.

3. That the discipline administered by the Department head is weak and ineffectual.

4. The administration of the Department has failed to keep pace with the demands being made upon it principally through the inability of the Department head to cope with present day Police problems.

5. The Department head has failed to adequately delegate authority to his sergeants and has failed to adequately define their area of responsibility.

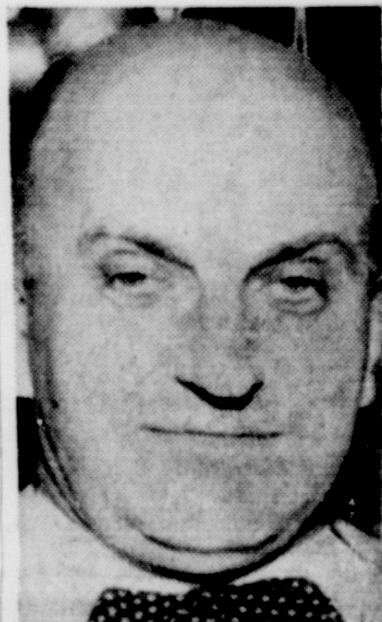

The committee has in its files numerous incidents upon which it bases the above enumerated conclusions and will not make them a detailed part of this Report. The committee has considered the facts that it ascertained in its study at considerable length and arrives at the recommendation which shall follow after serious consideration of the problems and with awareness of the grave results.

Bensalem Studies Water Line Route

The Bensalem Township Sewer and Water Authority has gone ahead and authorized its consulting engineers to make a study of a route for an interceptor water line from the township to the Philadelphia line at Southampton Road.

However, the authority must wait until Sept. 8 to find whether city council has passed a measure whereby Bensalem will receive one million gallons of water daily from the city.

Water Shortage

If the measure is passed, and indications are that it will, the supply will solve the townships critical water shortage particularly in the Nottingham and Avondale areas.

Although residents in those areas will pay 1-1.3 times the rate that city consumers pay, authority officials predict that in time there will be a decrease in the high water bills now paid by

PRR, Unions Still At Odds; Strike Nears

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The National Mediation Board has asked negotiators for two unions and the Pennsylvania Railroad to meet tomorrow in Philadelphia in an effort to avert a scheduled Sept. 1 strike against the railroad.

President Michael J. Quill of the International Transport Workers Union promptly rejected the proposal. He suggested instead a meeting in New York City Monday.

Quill said that unless the Pennsylvania made "a complete somersault" in its bargaining position, "I cannot see for the life of me, how the mediation board could settle the dispute."

He told the board in a telegram, "It is only fair to inform you that our plans for a strike against the Pennsylvania Railroad system remain unchanged and unless there is agreement by 12:01 a.m. on Sept. 1, the strike will take place as scheduled."

E.C. Thompson, executive secretary of the board, proposed the Philadelphia meeting in telegrams sent yesterday to Quill, president Michael Fox of the Railway Employees Department of the AFL-CIO and director Guy W. Knight of the railroad's Labor Relations Division.

Falls Burglary Suspect Called 'Little Devil'

"A little devil" was the term used by Falls Township police this morning to describe a six-year-old boy taken into custody yesterday on a burglary complaint.

Police said the youngster broke into Kelle's Food Store, the All-Saints Episcopal Church rectory and the Fallsington Library, all on Yardley Ave. in Fallsington. Nothing of value was taken by the youngster, who gained entrance into the buildings through windows and doors, police stated. "It was just malicious mischief," police remarked.

The youngster will be questioned again today in connection with similar incidents in Falls Township.

Troops Massed Civil War Threat Is Raging In Congo

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (UPI) — Baluba trial leader Albert Kalonji appealed today to Katanga President Moise Tshombe for military aid to fight off Congolese troops now sweeping rapidly through his so-called "mining state" in a move that threatened civil war.

The Congolese troops were part of forces being massed by central government Premier Patrice Lumumba for action against secessionists in Katanga and Kasai provinces.

Tshombe replied to Kalonji that he would supply arms but was holding his own troops in the Katanga to defend the mineral-rich area against the attack which he felt could be expected when the Congolese forces have crushed the "mining state." The latter is a diamond-rich area in southern Kasai province adjacent to Katanga which Kalonji established as a refuge for his Baluba tribesmen and declared independent of the Congo republic two weeks ago.

The Congolese troops — on orders from Lumumba — were airlifted to Luluabourg, the capital of the Kasai province, on Tuesday and Wednesday aboard requisitioned Belgian Sabena airliners.

Kalonji was believed to have no more than 450 troops and police to oppose Lumumba's well armed troopers, who probably could count on the support of fierce Lulu tribesmen intent on exterminating the Baluba natives who have been fleeing into Kalonji's territory.

Warfare between the Lulus and the Balubas has been raging for at least 18 months. Three hundred persons have been reported killed in the savage tribal fighting in the past two days alone.

Conquest of Kasai would put Lumumba's troops on the border of "independent" Katanga, which is likely to prove a much tougher foe.

Katanga president Moise Tshombe's Belgian-officered army has mined roads and railway bridge on routes leading from Kasai into Katanga, and is prepared to blow them up at the first sign of an invasion attempt.

Traffic Light Being Erected On Route 13

Construction of an additional traffic lane and the installation of traffic signals began yesterday at the Levittown Shop-A-Rama entrance opposite the Courier-Times Building.

The shopping center entrance and exit will be closed for about two weeks while workmen build a third lane and install traffic signals.

Tullytown Borough Police Chief Jack Walterick said the men will construct a third lane at the entrance, thereby giving motorists two lanes into the shopping center and one lane out onto the highway.

Light Treadles

Treadles changing the traffic signals when a car rides over them will be installed at the Shop-A-Rama entrance and at the entrance to the Courier-Times Building, the chief explained. Two traffic islands will be removed to make room for the new lane and lights.

Chief Walterick advised motorists to enter the shopping center from the next access-drive on Route 13 or to turn left at the Levittown Parkway and enter the center from that highway.

Weather conditions will determine how long workmen will be at their construction tasks.

Aided Accident Victim

Boy Scout Training Helped Youth Give Assistance To Injured Child

Bradley Albert's Boy Scout training was put to good use Monday when he came to the aid of an injured youngster and possibly saved him from more serious injury.

Shortly after noon, Monday, Daniel Pressman, 7 son of Mr. and Mrs. George Pressman of 19 Great Oak Road, Goldenridge, Levittown, was struck by a car while crossing Mill Creek Road in front of the Ralph Waldo Emerson School. Albert, a 13-year-old eighth grade student at Benjamin Franklin Junior High School, saw the child crawl from under the auto and attempt to get up from the ground.

Deep Gratitude

"I saw the lady who was driving the car try to help him up. When I noticed that his leg was broken, I quickly grabbed her arm and set the boy down again. If she (Ann E. Padel-la, 48 of Lynn Haven) would have picked him up, his leg would have flopped over," explained the Troop 39 member.

Mrs. Pressman expressed deep gratitude to the alert scout during a telephone conversation yesterday. She declared, "I think this boy did a remarkable job of having self control and keeping his head about him. I

Three States Conducting Shark Watch

NEW YORK (UPI) — A large-scale shark watch by air, land and sea was conducted today along the New York, New Jersey and Connecticut shores.

The combined police, Navy and Coast Guard alert was instituted as the result of two attacks on bathers within four days.

Fifteen police launches, 2 police helicopters and a Navy blimp were assigned to a special shark patrol.

All Coast Guard stations on the three states' shores and more than 500 lifeguards were alerted to be on watch for sharks.

The Coast Guard said its vessels and aircraft were prepared for quick dispatch in the event of shark sightings.

Beaches in two areas were ordered closed and swimming was sharply curtailed at many others.

Bit On Arm
Clyde Trudeau of Stratford, Conn., said a shark bit his arm while he was skin diving Wednesday about 75 feet off Seaside Park at Bridgeport, Conn. He said he spotted a fin above the surface just before he was bitten. He was treated for a laceration of the arm at a hospital.

Bridgeport's beaches immediately were ordered closed, and a short time later police reported spotting four sharks swimming out to sea.

Sharks also were reported sighted Wednesday off Manasquan Inlet and Mantoloking, N.J.

A Navy blimp patrolling the New Jersey shores in the shark watch reported sighting one less than a mile off Manasquan Inlet but a Coast Guard vessel failed to locate it.

Children Escape

Police said "fins" were spotted near six children swimming in shallow water at Mantoloking. Lifeguards quickly brought the children ashore and the beach was closed.

These and other shark reports along the three states' coastlines spurred New York City's police to assign five launches and two helicopters to shark duty. Nine police launches were assigned to similar duty in Nassau County on Long Island.

Lifeguards on all three states' beaches, including 500 assigned to New York City's eight municipal beaches, were ordered to maintain extra watches for sharks.

The shark scare developed after John Brodeur, 24, of Jersey City, N. J., nearly lost his leg when he was attacked at Sea Girt, N.J., last Sunday. He was reported in fair condition today in a hospital where doctors said they hoped the leg would not have to be amputated.

possibility both to the balance of the Board and to the public at large. It is the recommendation of the committee that the Board of Commissioners forthwith remove John R. Stewart as Chief of Police on the grounds that he is inefficient and incapable of performing the duties of Chief of Police.

The following are further recommendations that the committee makes for what it considers to be the overall improvement of the Police Department of Bristol Township.

1. That the Criminal Investigation Department be opened to competitive examination and made a Civil Service promotional position and that the Criminal Investigation Department consist of four (4) members.

2. That the Civil Service Board be requested to forthwith give an examination for the position of Lieutenant and that the Board of Commissioners fill this position as soon as possible.

3. That a comprehensive departmental in-service training program be instituted by the administrative head of the Department forthwith.

4. That the Board of Commissioners direct the Solicitor and Township Manager to proceed with all promptness to completely revise and revamp the entire Civil Service Rules and Regulations of the Police Department with particular emphasis on the defining of the areas of responsibility of the various supervisory positions in the Police Department.

5. That the Board of Commissioners make arrangements for each Police Officer to have completed a basic training course in Police work.

6. That at no times shall the Township of Bristol be patrolled by anything less than three (3) vehicles.

7. That the Board of Commissioners make every effort possible to have a member of the Police Department entered in the National Police Academy at Washington, D. C.

8. That a study be made of the towing problem with which the Police Department is constantly troubled and that some plan be formulated to resolve this problem.

9. That every effort be made to insure that the Police Department of Bristol Township will be conducted as near as possible to a military organization.

The committee also has certain recommendations concerning equipment changes in the Police Department which the committee does not feel should be made part of this Report. The changes will be handled by the Administrative Personnel of the Township.

The report was signed by Hartley, Vetter, Evans, Sokolove and O'Neill, the five members of the study committee.

Stewart has been chief of the township police department since July, 1953. He is 55 years old and would have continued in office for five more years, until the compulsory retirement age of 60.

Before coming to the township, he served some 20 years with the Pennsylvania State Police.

Township Manager Richard J. Bowen will act as administrative head of the police department until a new chief is named or until a successful appeal by Stewart returns him to office.

In other police business during last night's meeting the commissioners named five new patrolmen to the department. They are Norman W. Stoner, Jr., 24, of 1 Mulberry Lane, Levittown; Frank E. Moffett, 28, of 16 Return Lane, Levittown; Woodrow D. Wilson, 25, of 2220 Newportville Road; John J. Lowrie, Jr., 25, of 2901 Newportville Road; and John W. Schwab, 30, of 119 Indian Creek Drive, Levittown.

Reservations have been made and the new officers will go shortly for training at the state police school in Hershey.

Eternal City Bells Peal Peaceful Olympics Opening

Newest acquisitions of Bristol Township's highway bureau are these two $14,000 street sweepers. The bright orange machines will whosh up tons of dirt from the township thoroughfares. Receiving the

4,200 March, 90,000 Watch Big Parade

ROME (UPI) — The bells of the Eternal City pealed a peaceful opening today to the XVII Olympiad.

Whether it will remain that way — as against a history of strife and turbulence — remains to be seen until the games end on Sept. 11.

But all was calm and serene as 4,200 of the more than 8,000 athletes on hand paraded through the sultry summer heat of the Caesars today to hear Italian President Giovanni Gronchi formally open the greatest sports show on earth while 90,000 wild spectators alternately applauded and panted.

All the athletes did not march, to preserve the green-carpeted floor of the stadium as much as possible. But 4,200 finely-conditioned athletes from 85 competing nations ignored the 86-degree heat — including 230 U.S. athletes led by world decathlon champion Rafter Johnson — to stand at attention while Gronchi proclaimed the opening of the Olympic Games.

Prince Leads Marchers

The marchers were led into the jammed stadium by Prince Constantine, 20-year-old heir to the Greek throne, a team traditionally first in line as the founder of the games. And the prince earned this honor because he is helmsman in the Dragon class for the Greek yachting team.

Behind him, swinging along behind their national banners, came the delegations from every other competing nation. Each team saluted President Gronchi with an "eyes right" and continued on along the running track before wheeling into line on the turf.

The crowd thundered its approval of marching style and sartorial elegance, giving the Belgians a big hand for natty outfits of navy blue jackets, grey trousers and white gloves and hats. The Danes struck the first truly bright note with their brilliant red jackets, white trousers and cream-colored party hats.

The United States, always sure of a huge ovation, marched along smartly behind the flag-bearing Johnson in blue jackets and white trousers.

Once they were in line, Italian Olympic Committee President Giulio Onesti made a short welcoming speech and then newly-elected International Olympic Committee President Avery Brundage of Chicago invited Gronchi to declare the games open.

The usual complaints of an Olympic village were heard since athletes began arriving in Rome but an attitude of peace and calm prevailed as the games which will run through Sept. 11 began. Even an anticipated traffic jam that was supposed to have been the greatest seen in Rome since the days of Ben Hur was reduced to little more than a ride in the country.

And the thousands of tourists who were to have been turned away at the games of Rome due to lack of accommodations, were being escorted to some of the better hotels in town by hawkers on motorcycle — at the airport, on the highways and at the railroad stations.

The Olympic Housing Bureau reported it has many more rooms available in private houses than it has takers.

whittled the cost down to the present figure.

Two additional lights were figured in the original estimate, Hess said, but they were excluded when the board members were told that the overall candlepower would be the same with six lights.

The light standards will be 90 feet high with three placed on each side of the stadium.

Hess said that he hoped the school would be able to play "at least a few games" under the lights this season.

Hess also said the field would be available to other area teams at night.

The school district will apparently take care of its own retarded children, Hess said.

The school director said that the district's offer to the county whereby the district would make two classrooms available for instruction of retarded children from the county, has been ignored.

He said that the district could accommodate children from outside the township on a tuition basis.

They'll leave the door open all day, all winter, in the Acme Market to open at the end of the month on Tyburn Road, Fallsington, but cold, heat, rain, snow, flies and dust will not get in. Customers will.

The secret is the amazing "Air Portal," an invisible curtain of air moving slowly downward that acts as a door. It works. I stepped through an air door in Stockholm, Sweden, three years ago, from a cold sidewalk into a warm department store decorated for Christmas.

The store management will probably close a regular door at night, however. The air door is not burglar proof.

Bristol Township Commissioner Sam Delp has discovered his township has no monopoly on vandals. As Bucks County bridge superintendent, Delp is directing the reconstruction of Cabin Run Covered Bridge, in Tinticum Township. The entire bridge floor has been torn out, Delp has replaced the stolen lights with heavy, black, oil burning smoke pots. "Maybe they'll be too hot to pick up," he hopes.

Father Of 3 Admits Attack Of 100 Women

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — A married service station attendant and the father of three children has admitted criminally assaulting more than 100 women over the past five years, police announced yesterday.

Detective Lt. William Lovejoy said 39 women from the Philadelphia area, Camden, N. J. and Levittown, Pa., identified Donald B. Stewart, 27, as the attacker in a special police standup Tuesday night.

Stewart told police he usually preyed on women leaving trolleys and buses late at night. Lovejoy said lately the suspect waited in a parked car outside homes where husbands left for work and then broke into the houses assaulting women and occasionally committing burglaries.

The police said the suspect was arrested last week through the alertness of patrolman Charles Godin. He jotted down the license number of a parked car in which a man was sitting as he left for work early one morning.

When Godin arrived at his station, his wife called to report someone had broken a rear window with a stone. The license number taken by Godin led police to Stewart, Lovejoy said.

Stewart was held for grand jury action Wednesday by magistrate Samuel Clark Jr.

According to Authority Chairman C. Burnley White and Manager John Eminhizer, additional consumers from proposed housing developments will lower the water rate.

Philadelphia Water Commissioner Samuel Baxter yesterday said that thus far no members of the city council have voiced any objections to the bill.

Final Reading

The measure has already passed two readings since Mayor Richardson Dilworth urged that the council adopt the bill. The final reading will take place Sept. 8.

If adopted, the measure will mark the first time that Philadelphia has supplied water to a suburban community. The agreement would restrict industries from using the supply.

Manager Eminhizer yesterday said that a report from the authority's consulting engineers, Albright and Friel of Philadelphia would be forthcoming within a few weeks. The report will map out the route the interceptor line will take and the estimated cost of the line.

The line will run from the Nottingham main on Street Road near Route 1 to a point on the Philadelphia line on Southampton Road. The roads are about a mile apart.

do want to thank him very much."

Albert said his first aid instruction at the Edgely Fire Company Scout organization enabled him to take the action he did.

"In the Boy Scouts they teach you that you're supposed to keep an injured person still and warm until a doctor or other trained person arrives. I tried to keep the boy quiet. He was afraid doctors would put braces on his legs and stick needles in him. I told him they wouldn't hurt him and that his leg was just sprained, not broken. The asphalt road was very hot and I kept my hands under him so he wouldn't get burned. My hands got quite hot," the first aid said.

Daniel, a third-grade pupil at the Emerson school, will return home in two weeks, but will not return to school, since the plaster cast covering a large part of his body will keep him flat on his back for a total of eight months, Mrs. Pressman explained. He will continue his education with the help of a private tutor, his mother said.

Albert lives at 11 Valley Road, Violetwood, Levittown, with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald L. Albert, and sister Kim Audrey, celebrating her fourth birthday today. Donald Albert is employed by the Trenton Naval Air Turbine Jet Testing Lab as an aircraft mechanic.

River Victim Returns

Three victims of a false alarm in Morrisville yesterday are (from left) John Gonzales, Miami, Fla.; Capitol View Fire Company Chief Rowland Gorton; and Frank Cowell, borough fire chief. The false alarm occurred when Lower Bridge Patrolman Robert Lawrence called borough police to tell them of a car he'd spotted on the Delaware River bank, near Delmorr Ave. Police investigated, found a pair of pants, shirt and pair of sandals on the front seat of the 1957 four-door sedan. That was enough to bring out the Capitol View Fire Company, which dragged the river for an hour before car owner Gonzalez showed up. Gonzalez explained that he'd been cleaning his car when he found the tide had crept up on him, then was unable to move the vehicle out of the river bank mud. He left the car and went to fetch some friends to help him. In the meantime the alarm was sounded. (Courier-Times Photo)

Women Voters Plan Series Of Gatherings

A series of social gatherings for women who have not yet registered to vote has been announced by the League of Women Voters of Yardley-Morrisville. The gatherings, "Coffee Klatches," will be held at the homes of Mrs. Frank Chestnut, Mrs. James Fitzcharles, 3rd, Mrs. William Goode, Mrs. Wilbur E. Harvey, Mrs. James R. Hiltner, Mrs. Robert L. Kelso, Mrs. E. E. Pegram, Mrs. George Schroeder, Mrs. Harry G. Smith, Jr., and Mrs. D. G. Worob. Women unable to attend one of the meetings can obtain information from the league chairmen in their areas.

Republican Chairmen

Republican chairmen include Barton S. Ivins and Mrs. James H. Purdy, South 1; Mrs. Thomas L. Hall and Andrew H. Keefe, South 2; and Mrs. F. A. Brock, 3rd, Yardley Borough.

Democratic chairmen include Mrs. Harry D. Levin and Martin W. Reddan, South 1; David A. Clark, South 2; and Mrs. George P. Brown and Hobart J. Carter, Yardley Borough.

Mrs. Harvey, the league's president, said, "Qualifications to register cause many questions. A registrant must be 21 years old on or before Nov. 9, 1960, a resident of his election district for two months prior to the general election on Nov. 8.

Registrant Requirements

A naturalized citizen must show original naturalization papers. The last day to register is Monday, Sept. 19, at Doylestown. "By registering now an elector who is ill or who will be absent from the county within the 30 days prior to an election may vote by absentee ballot by writing for an application form to the chief of elections, Doylestown."

Mrs. Harvey pointed out that registrars would be at Bargain City, 600 Lincoln Ave., Falls Township, on Friday; at the Yardley Community Center on Tuesday; at the American Legion Home, Bridge St., Morrisville, Sept. 7; at the Lower Makefield Township Building, Edgewood Road, Sept. 9; and at St. John's Church, Alden Ave. and Winding Way, Pennsylvania Heights, Sept. 12.

Man Takes Own Life

Harry Zack, 33, of 20 Ida Ave., Morrisville, died of a self-inflicted wound yesterday afternoon, police report.

Police said Zack, who lived with his mother, Mrs. Mary Zack, and a brother, Michael, apparently put the barrel of a 12-gauge shotgun in his mouth shortly before 3 p.m. and pulled the trigger. Police said they found powder burns on Zack's left hand.

He was pronounced dead by Dr. Theodore Cohen.

Police said Zack kept eight guns of various calibre in a second floor closet in his home. Zack had been "despondent" and was suffering from a "nervous condition," police said. He was an employee of General Motors Corp., Trenton.

Beside his mother and brother, he is survived by another brother, John of Yardley; two sisters, Mrs. Helen McCartney, Jeremiah Ave., Trenton, and Mrs. Anna Bridge, 19 Oakdale Boulevard, Morrisville.

Funeral arrangements are being made by the Michael Koscher Funeral Chapel, 981 South Broad St., Trenton.
